

INTERNATIONAL INTENSIVE TRAINING IN NONVIOLENT COMMUNICATION 9 days with 4 certified trainers

WHEN: 4 - 13 November 2016

WHERE: Immanuel Conference Centre, Ždírec n. D., Czech Republic

Do you wish to achieve a better understanding, cooperation, efficiency, or mutual respect in communication? This intensive residential training is meant for all people of differing backgrounds, fields of specialization and life philosophies, who want to come together to create a world that works for all. This means you might be an active agent of change or a curious explorer about yourself, your community and the world around you.

Training is organized by The Center for Nonviolent Communication (CNVC) and Nonviolent Communication Brno. Seminar Language is English. Translation into Czech will be offered.

Let's explore these and other questions:

- How to create win-win policies and strengthen collaboration among all stakeholders?
- How to create businesses in which people and communities thrive?
- How to take care of others without burning out?
- How to connect to people who we consider being "on the other side" and effectively influence systems?
- How to solve conflicts in teams? How to lead with clarity, effectiveness and compassion?
- How to truly support our kids while not forgetting about our own needs?

Robert Kržišnik

Robert has been working for 27 years with individuals and groups as psychotherapist, trainer, team coach, complex meeting facilitator and a conflict mediator in a wide spectrum of environments: from corporate to educational to personal and spiritual retreats. While all his work is infused with the spirit and the approach of Nonviolent Communication, he is also a dedicated practitioner of the Art of Hosting practices, and an explorer of inter-cultural communication. In NVC he is most passionate about its spiritual aspects, as well as its use in conflict mediation (between individuals, within groups and between groups). He has shared NVC on IITs, retreats, and workshops throughout Europe and in the US, Mideast and Asia.

Frank's passions are children and families. His need is to affect something and contribute to their lives. His desire is that children can be children and parents are companions and also men and women stay with their own needs as men and women. His wish is that parents give their children roots and wings on their way. His contributions are trainings, counseling, mediation, coaching, books. Together with Gundi, his wife, they developed the "Giraffentraum" program to introduce NVC to kindergartens and schools. This program runs in several countries all over the world. Frank focuses on intuition, empathic presence, body language and felt feelings and loves to play and enjoy miracles.

Kathleen holds a vision for a peaceful, just and sustainable world. She has worked as a Certified Trainer for CNVC since 2003 and serves as an assessor with CNVC by supporting trainer candidates through a community-based certification process.

Kathleen enjoys exploring ways to engage with conflict in life-serving ways through the development of restorative systems. She serves as a lead trainer for the Freedom Project of Seattle, an affiliate organization of CNVC that strengthens community safety by supporting the transformation of prisoners into peacemakers. Kathleen offers trainings in concrete skills of nonviolence leading to reconciliation with ourselves, our loved ones and the community.

Kathleen MacFerran

Ania has been incorporating NVC into her everyday life since it was first introduced into Poland, with her help, in 2001: while working for Peacemaker Community, she organized NVC founder Marshall Rosenberg's visits. She has led or co-led trainings in NVC and NVC Mediation in Italy, France, Germany, Greece, Korea, and Australia. Ania also works with groups and couples and has facilitated workshops for the education sector, government organizations, NGOs, and businesses.

A recent professional interest is training trainers - offering NVC as a tool for improving quality and efficiency for trainers in other disciplines. She is also a certified MBSR mindfulness teacher.
